Working conditions and vulnerability

Context:

EU2020 strategy: new skills for new jobs initiative

Main challenges:

- Address lack of tools to identify new jobs and new skills; measuring skill demand and supply
- Occupations and required skills: skill-to-occupation mismatch
- Comparison & harmonisation of job quality indicators, occupational health and safety indicators and Laeken indicators – innovation of the JQ concept
- Measurement of working conditions of vulnerable groups

Working conditions and vulnerability

Joint research activities

- Create tools for harmonising the measurement and comparison of occupations/job content and their skills requirements EU-wide
- Tools to detect and classify new emerging jobs and new skill needs in WC & OHS surveys
- Improve inventories and reviews considering WC & OHS (web-based platform incl. meta-data)
- Identifying determinants of vulnerability connected with economic changes and employers' behaviour and mapping vulnerable groups in work
