

JOB OFFER

Hiring an Experienced Researcher in Eco-social Policies

Deadline for submission: 22 September 2025

With a view to permanently reinforcing its multilingual team situated in Brussels, the European Social Observatory is hiring a part-time (80%) experienced researcher on eco-social policies with an expertise on particular policies such as green skills, housing, energy poverty, ideally to start as of mid-October 2025.

The European Social Observatory (Observatoire social européen, OSE) is a multidisciplinary centre for applied research on the social dimension of European integration. It has a forward-looking approach, identifying and analysing issues as they emerge on the policy agenda of the European Union and its Member States. The OSE provides a learning environment for each of its team members – researchers, administrative staff, and regular interns – and encourages them to make their own mark on the journey of the institute.

Key tasks

The experienced researcher is expected to:

- Contribute to the development and implementation of the OSE's research strategy on social protection policies, project activities and organisation of regular events.
- Contribute to key deliverables on eco-social policies.
- Write project proposals (including in the context of competitive calls for tender), research reports and various types of publications.
- Work both on an individual basis and with project teams, with the intent of conducting applied (comparative) research.
- Contribute to designing and implementing surveys and case studies, conduct desk research and fieldwork.
- Contribute to the OSE's external communications: website, newsletters, and social media.

Requested qualifications

The candidate should have:

- A PhD in sociology, political sciences, (environmental) economics, (environmental) law or environmental studies, or at least five years of relevant research experience.
- Proven skills in comparative social policy analysis in the broad area of eco-social policies, demonstrated by at least two publications (academic articles, book chapters or scientific reports) as a lead author in the area of social policy.
- Skills in the use of both quantitative and qualitative techniques of research. Quantitative skills can be an important asset.
- A strong interest in social policymaking, both at national and European levels.
- Strong analytical capacity and problem-solving skills.
- Excellent communication skills in English, both verbal and written.
- A passive understanding of French or willingness to learn the language.

Benefits

- A part-time (80%) employment contract under Belgian labour law for a period of one year, which can – and is expected to be – extended.
- Benefits according to the Belgian social protection and employment protection legislation.
- Opportunity to work with and learn from renowned experts, in the context of international (European and academic) networks.
- Opportunity to participate in the OSE training offer (language, computing) and further one's research, language, communication and networking skills.

Application

Applications should be submitted in English and include the following:

- A letter of motivation
- A European Curriculum vitae (Europass CV), including the names of two referees who may be contacted to provide their opinion on the candidate's suitability for the position
- A maximum of two reference letters (optional)
- Copy of a publication (e.g. article, chapter, scientific report)

Deadline for submission: 22 September 2025. Interviews with shortlisted candidates will tentatively be held during the first week of October 2025.

Applications should be addressed to Slavina Spasova, Director and Rita Tomioka, HR lead. They should be sent to: spasova@ose.be and rh@ose.be.
